Comments about Bear Lake Log Homes ( Reid and Terry Stewart )

We built a combination log and frame home, with the log package from Precision Craft in Boise. We talked with several contractors but chose Reid and Terry because of their reputation ( called a number of references ), experience both in the industry and with Precision Craft products, the fact that their business and home are in the local area, and their up front method of estimating and purchasing for the various stages of construction.

We live out of state and needed a "turn key" project. The Stewarts were always available for consultation and advice about the inevitable choices or changes, including some customization, that occurred during construction. They also a good relationship with the local municipalities and building officials and we were able to make some modifications without having to re-draw plans, etc.

All in all we had a very favorable experience and are happy to recommend Bear Lake Log Homes to other potential customers
